

Flint Hills music...

The CD has humor, too. Wilson's award-winning "Dung Beetle Bill" describes this little recycler as "the cattleman's best friend," and transforms many other country themes to song.

The CD package includes a substantial bonus: a 24-page booklet containing song background notes by Annie Wilson along with 75 full-color photographs taken by her and area photographers.

The album includes five songs by band partner Carl Reed, describing the beauty of the landscape and wildlife, as well as the early days of buffaloes, Indians, abolitionist heroes and the Santa Fe Trail.

As its name implies, Tallgrass Express is a "truly regional band," specializing in "Roots Music from the Tallgrass Prairie." Along with trademark lyrical vocals and harmonies, their all-acoustic sound crosses genres of country, folk, western, bluegrass, and blues, interpreted through the fiddle, mandolin, harmonica, guitar and bass. Band members on the new CD are Wilson of Elmdale, Carl Reed of Manhattan, Jim Versch of Marion, and the recently-retired Charlie Laughridge of Council Grove. Kim Schmidt of Goessel, formerly of the Greenhorns, is now playing fiddle for the band.

The band's website encourages buyers to find the CD at several listed local retailers, but also tells how it can be ordered on-line. The website also provides lyrics, song clips, background info and extensive photography of the Flint Hills. For more info, see www.tallgrassexpress.com.

The band will debut the album Saturday, Sept. 13, in Cottonwood Falls, Kan., on the east lawn of the Chase County Courthouse. Guests are encouraged to bring lawn chairs. Suggested gratuity is $8. In case of rain or excess heat, concert will be two blocks north inside the Prairie PastTimes Hall at 220 1/2 Broadway. □

Missouri dairy farmers urge legislators to override Nixon veto

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri dairy farmers are urging lawmakers to override Gov. Jay Nixon's veto of legislation authorizing financial incentives for their industry.

The dairy cattle incentives are included in two broader agriculture bills that Nixon vetoed because they would shift regulation of deer farms from the Conservation Department to the Agriculture Department.

The deer provisions have dominated the public debate about the bills.

But the Missouri Dairy Association says the proposed industry incentives are important to keep farmers from closing their dairy operations.

The bills would authorize state subsidies to farmers participating in a new federal insurance program for dairy production that begins this week.

They also would authorize 80 college scholarships of up to $5,000 each for students who work at dairy farms and remain in Missouri agriculture after graduation. □
